The Festschrift

The festschrift is divided into three parts, each focusing on a different aspect of Platen's scholarship.

Part I: Civil Law

This section includes essays on various topics in civil law, such as contract law, tort law, and property law. The essays explore the historical development of these areas of law as well as their contemporary application in both Germany and other jurisdictions.

Part II: Commercial Law

The second part of the festschrift focuses on commercial law, with essays on topics such as corporate law, banking law, and insolvency law. The essays examine the challenges and opportunities facing businesses in today's global economy and the role of law in regulating and facilitating commercial activity.

Part III: Legal History

The final part of the festschrift is dedicated to legal history, Platen's primary area of expertise. The essays in this section explore the origins and evolution of legal concepts and institutions, from ancient Rome to the modern era.

Contributors

The festschrift features contributions from a wide range of scholars, including:

- Professor Dr. Martin Ball, University of Cambridge
- Professor Dr. Mathias Reimann, Max Planck Institute for Comparative and International Private Law
- Professor Dr. Werner Flume, University of Münster
- Professor Dr. Reinhard Zimmermann, University of Oxford

- Professor Dr. Klaus Adomeit, University of Münster

Essays in Honour of Eckhard Platen is an invaluable resource for scholars, practitioners, and students of German law. The essays provide a comprehensive overview of Platen's work and its significance for the field. This festschrift is a fitting tribute to a leading scholar who has dedicated his life to the study and advancement of law.
