It all started when Stink decided to make a giant volcano for his science project. But when he added too much baking soda to the vinegar, the volcano exploded, sending lava (actually red paint) all over the town.

Now, Stink is the town's most wanted disaster. But with the help of his friends, Judy Moody and Meat, Stink sets out to clean up his mess and save the day.

Along the way, Stink and his friends learn about the importance of being responsible, working together, and never giving up. Even when things seem impossible, Stink Moody always finds a way to make things right.
