Hollywood musicals of the Golden Age were a visual feast, with lavish costumes, opulent sets, and stunning choreography. These elements combined to create a world of glamour and escapism that transported audiences to another time and place.

The new book "Wonderful Design Glamour In The Hollywood Musical" showcases the best of these designs, taking readers on a journey through the glittering world of Hollywood's greatest musicals. The book features over 300 images from such classic films as "Singin' in the Rain," "The Wizard of Oz," and "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes."

The book's authors, John Kobal and Ron Haydock, are two of the world's leading experts on Hollywood musicals. They have spent years researching and collecting the images that appear in the book. The result is a stunning visual document of the Golden Age of Hollywood musicals.

In addition to the images, the book also includes essays by Kobal and Haydock on the history of Hollywood musicals and the design process. These essays provide valuable insights into the creative process behind some of the most iconic musicals in history.

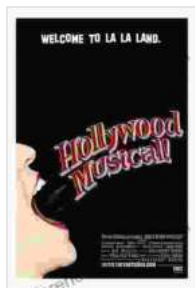

"Wonderful Design Glamour In The Hollywood Musical" is a must-have for any fan of Hollywood musicals. It is a beautiful and informative book that captures the glamour and excitement of the Golden Age of Hollywood.

Here are just a few of the highlights from the book:

* A behind-the-scenes look at the creation of the costumes for "Singin' in the Rain." * A detailed examination of the sets for "The Wizard of Oz." * A discussion of the choreography for "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes." * A look at the influence of Hollywood musicals on fashion and design.

"Wonderful Design Glamour In The Hollywood Musical" is a treasure trove of information and inspiration for anyone interested in the Golden Age of Hollywood musicals. It is a book that will be enjoyed by fans of film, fashion, and design for generations to come.
